Pay Tribute to "Grand Old Man"

House Pauses Today in Recognition of Long Service of "Uncle Joe" Cannon.

Washington, Dec. 29.—The house of representatives arranged to pause to-day for an hour or more in its consideration of appropriations, taxation and other governmental matters to pay tribute to its "grand old man," "Uncle Joe" Cannon.

Establishment by Representative Cannon of a new record for length of service in congress was the occasion for the celebration. The former speaker set the new mark yesterday, surpassing in length of service Justin Smith Morrill, of Vermont, who previously had held the record of forty-three years, nine months and twenty-four days in the house and senate. Mr. Cannon long ago exceeded all others for length of service in the house and last November was elected to the house for the twenty-third time.

Recognition of establishment of the house for the twenty-third time.

Recognition of establishment of the new record, according to plans of house leaders, was to take the form of a round of addresses, each of the speakers paying tribute to "Uncle Joe's" long service, not only as one of the 406-odd members, but as the house's presiding officer for eight years. Champ Clark, the veteran Missouri member, and former speaker, was to lead off in the speaking ceremonies and other "old-timers" were to follow. "Uncle Joe" was placed last on the program to permit him to thank

Ceremony A "Wake."

When it came his time to talk, Mr. Cannon described the ceremony as a wake, and said he was beginning to wonder if he was not already realizing the hopes of those who desire to return from the other world to communicate with friends still participating in the ordinary affairs of the earth, Many big things happeneds in 1872, the year he was first elected to congress, not the least of which was a violent eruption of Vesuvius, he said.

"Speaker Gillett and Mr. Clark were approaching the polls that year," he said, "and Jim Mann, at 16, was trying to decide whether he would be a farmer or a lawyer, Rainey and Mondell were beginning to figure life in percentages, and the ambitions of Claude Kitchen and Nick Longworth at the age of three were centered about their first pants."

Admitting that he had been in congress off and on longer than other members, Ma Cannon declared he was not the veteran in continuous service.

"Gillett, Clark, Mann, Butler, Grgen of Massachusetts, Moon and Sims rank with me in that line," he added, "because I had two vacations which I did not seek and those four years were the longest years that have intervened since I first came to Washington,"

The Central News reported that 400 had been killed and thousands wounded in the battle of Flume, but these figures were believed to be exaggerated. It was admitted that there was a chance for failure of the truce negotiations at Flume, with a resultant renewal of hostilities. In this event the future of D'Annunzio is doubtful, His forces could withstand the strong government army only a short time.

As soon as Flume is evacuated the Rapelio treaty will be put into effect, there.

The senator went first to the executive offices, where he was fold that the president had the bill. He then went to the White House, and said he was told there that the bill was at the executive offices.

Returning to the executive offices, the senator took a seat with the announced purpose of remaining until he got some sort of a statement as to what the president proposed to do with the bill.

After nearly half an hour in the White House Sensior Ashurst returned to the executive offices.

"I have nothing to say now, but I will make a statement later," Sensior Ashurst said, "I am going to wait for Mr. Tumulty." He refused to say whether he had seen the president, Wanted to Caim Down,
